This letter and the following pages of information on DAR Members who joined DAR on the record of EVAN PROTHRO, Revolutionary War Soldier, were sent by Bob Stephens, 2709 Amherst, Dallas, TX; 75225. Mr. Stephens is the author of LIFE AND FAMILY OF CHARLES HOLLAND, and THE STEPHENS FAMILY HISTORY. September 10, 1971

Dear Bob,

It has been a long time between letters and I suppose you have been busy with your book. Our son had an operation in Little Rock this past June and was in the hospital twenty two days - we returned around the middle of July and spent the night in Dallas and I intended to call you but a cousin and her husband came to the Motel to see us and that took up the evening and it was too late to call you. All in all it has been a busy summer but hopefully things are back to normal again and I'll have more free time. Danny is back in College - goes Monday, Wednesday and Fridays from eight until one so at least we are back on a schedule and that helps.

I've been busy puzzling over our ancestors in South Carolina and Georgia again and placed a query in "Family Fuzzlers" for Prothro and Hughes and had two letters giving me some good information. I don't know if you are still interested in family genealogy or not but trust you are so will send along this information in case you want to add it in your records.

In your search for Charles Holland in South Carolina did you come across a Andrew Holland? He witnessed Catherine Hughes (Hughes?) Will in 1795 and in her Will she mentions her grand daughter, Margaret Holland and her grandson William Hughes Holland as well as grand daughter Catherine Hannes and then a Jean Hannes but doesn't say if it is a grand daughter or son or son in law or what. It is possible that she had several daughters and that two married Hollands or do you think William Hughes could have been Sarah and Charles' son? Andrew Holland might have been a son in law or just a neighbor, but was he Charles' brother? Seems likely, doesn't it? Did you find any records on any of the mentioned names in your search?

I don't know if you know Linda Murrah McCord of Centreville, Miss. or not but she too is a descendant of Charles Holland - his son Absalom and then Absalom's son Jacob and then his daughter Bethena who married Eddie W. Murrah. I happened to mention my Holland line to Tom Murrah who is also interested in genealogy and he asked to see your booklet and compare information that Mrs. McCord had sent him and it fits her line. I wrote her but have not had time to receive a reply as yet.

I saw a query from a Miss Gertrude Hughes from Cedartown, Georgia so I wrote to her and had a letter plus her family information yesterday - Her earliest Hughes ancestor that she has proof of is William Hughes - he came from either Laurens or Abbeville County in South Carolina to Alabama and died in 1846 in Cherokee Co., Ala. This William had two sisters that she knows of - one named Catherine and one Mary and a John Hughes administered William's estate and she thinks he was a son of William. She dates his birth between 1760 -80. I wonder if he wasn't James Hughes brother - perhaps that is where the name of William Hughes Holland in Catherine's will came from?

She gave me a list of others searching the Hughes lines and when I can find time I hope to write them.

If you are interested in any names and addresses of Prothro or Hughes descendants I'll be glad to send them to you. Hope you are still interested, and will enjoy looking over the enclosed information.

When will you be in San Antonio again? It seems a shame we can never meet, everyone stays just too darn busy I guess. Please write when you can find a free minute.

Sincerely,

*June Brown

Dear June:

Puzzler No. 199 I observed your query on Prothro. You should have asked me when you were living here. Ha!

Someone told me your son was very ill. I have wondered about him, but just never took time to drop you a note and ask about him. I trust all is well with you and yours at this time. Kind regards to your daughter. And I do pray your son is doing okeh now.

WILLS, FERRIES, AND MILLS

Some 75 years ago the maker of these charts found in a book at the Philadelphia Public Library a copy of the last will and testament of Evan Prothro, the ancestor who came from Harberith, SW Wales, during the latter part of the 17th century. At the time when the book was read there was no thought that the collecting of Prothro genealogical data would one day become an obsession instead of a matter of momentary interest. Unfortunately, this lack of interest resulted in failure to record either the title of the book or the name of its author.

The Genealogical Section, Library of Congress in Washington has numerous volumes on the early days of the Welsh in America. Over a period of several recent days many of these books have been perused in the course of efforts to find a copy of the will of Evan Prothro. These efforts have not been fruitful.

Another book, "The Welsh in Philadelphia," did contain a narrative in which Evan Prothro is recorded as having been one of the principal characters, and it is recalled that the same story had been read by the writer many years ago in the Philadelphia Public Library. The account concerned some Welsh farmers of Radnor, Pennsylvania, and the incident occurred in 1691. Prothro's name appears first among a list of twelve members of a group who formed a company to operate a ferry across the Schuylkill River, and he appears to have been a spokesman for the group. The ferry was needed to transport farm produce across the river to the markets in Philadelphia which, at the time, was controlled by William Penn. A man of French extraction named Kate Mullinax, probably a corruption of the name Molyneux, - was employed to operate the ferry.

Having observed that the venture seemed a profitable one William Penn brought suit in the courts, claiming one-half of the profits accruing from the operation. His contention was that, since the eastern terminus of the ferry was on land under his jurisdiction, he had a right to be cut in for half the profits. Prothro and his group won the decision, the wording of which made mention that all of the twelve defendants were worthy citizens of the Welsh Settlement.

There is evidence that the operation of ferries fascinated members of the Prothro family during later periods. During the early 1800's either Nathaniel Prothro or a Prothro relative of his operated what was called Prothro's Ferry. It plied across the Savannah River on or near what is now Route # 72, the road leading between Elberton, Georgia, and Calhoun Falls, South Carolina.

Another operation, also called Prothro's Ferry, was owned probably at a later time by George Prothro (1796-1875), whose name is listed in this series as J.1. It operated on the Flint River, in Pike County, southwest of Griffin, Ga.

The Prothro mother (W.A.A.) of the writer often commented that in the old days no Prothro man was happy unless he owned and operated a mill of some kind. If he operated a planing and sawmill he would purchase a large tract of land, cut the timber from it, sell the land, and move on to another location. Note the large number of land transactions listed in Sheet # 7 of these charts. However, if he was permanently settled on his land and grew cotton, invariably he also had a gin, a flour and grist mill; after having built a dam on a small stream for water power. The writer has seen at least five old mill sites where members of the family owned mills over a hundred years ago, and it is known that there are numerous others. The sites that have been visited are on tributaries of the South Branch of the Edisto River in Aiken, Edgefield, and Orangeburg Counties, S. C. A sixth site in Charleston, S. C. has been visited.

COMMENT: Please note the asterisk (*) before the name of the slave, Hester, in the 'ninthly' bequest lines above. Several years ago the writer received a letter from Mr. William Eugene Mullins (N-111A) of Texarkana, Texas, which included the following paragraph, "The above named negro, 'Hester', became the black 'Mammy' to all of the Dobbs children - was taken to Louisiana by my Aunt Delia Dobbs Prothro, died about 55 years ago and is buried there."

Incidentally, the mother of Mr. Mullins and of Mrs. Frances Cannon (N-115), was Mrs. Mary Frances Dobbs Mullins (N-195) who, so far as is known, was the first of the Prothro family in America to undertake serious research in regard to family history. During the early 1920's she visited Tenby in S.W. Wales, some ten miles from the smaller town of Harlebury, where Evan Prothro lived before he migrated to America. At Tenby Mrs. Mullins met Mr. George Protheroe and members of his family. Her accounts say that they were members of the 'landed gentry', and that they were most cordial toward her. Since Mrs. Mullins passed on before the writer had an opportunity of meeting her, it is not known whether she was able to confirm the fact of blood relationship with the Tenby Protheroes.

I give and bequeath unto my beloved wife Anny, during her natural life or widowhood, all of my lands which I claim where I now live, together with all the farming utensils, household and kitchen furniture and horses, pleasure carriage, wagons, oxen and carts, etc., also as many of the cattle, hogs and sheep as will be necessary, also eight negroes; to wit: Caesar, a man, Pricilla and her two youngest children, Judy, Henry, Edmond and Easter, together with as much of the crop of eighteen hundred and thirty-eight as will be necessary for the support of her and the above named property for the year eighteen hundred and thirty-nine, and at her death all the above named property to return back to my estate and be equally divided among my children.

I give and bequeath to my son, Emory, two negroes; to wit: Ellick and Joe, and his riding horse, saddle and bridle, and the privilege of working his negroes on the farm and receive their labor as long as he will remain with, and take care of, his mother. I give and bequeath to my daughter, Mary, two negroes; to wit: Jim, a boy, and Pricilla, a girl, with her bed and furniture, and when she marries she shall have two cows and calves. Some of my other children have received that amount, some more and some less, at the division of that part of my property not named in this WILL. It is my wish that they shall all be made equal, according to the amount they have received when this division shall take place in January, eighteen hundred and thirty-nine.

FAMILY RECORD BOOK OF GEORGE PROTHRO

George Prothro, 1796-1879, was the oldest child of Dr. James and Anny Prothro, and is shown as J-1 in these charts. He and his wife Sarah (W-3) were first cousins, and lived at or near Griffin, Ga. They brought up a large family and were people of considerable means when one considers the purchasing power of the dollar during the period when they lived. George Prothro kept a "Family Record Book" from 1855 to 1879, in which he recorded all gifts of money and of other tangible assets that he made to his descendants during his lifetime. There are some 15 separate entries, each of which records a substantial gift to a child or grandchild. The money involved amounted to $60,000, more or less.

The writer is deeply indebted to the memory of Mr. James Prothro McPherson (J-133) 1892-1964, of Griffin, Ga. for a facsimile copy of this remarkable document. Mr. McPherson was a great-grandson of George Prothro, and owned the original "Family Record Book". Although the writer never met him, continuing correspondence during several years resulted in interesting material for this work. A civil engineer by profession, Mr. McPherson was, during the late afternoon of his life, almost totally blind. Despite this handicap he carefully traced the original handwriting from the Record Book on transparent vellum, had prints made, and bound a set of them in a volume which he presented by mail to the writer.

Many of the 15 entries in the book are repetitious except as to sums of money involved. Transcription of the entire work would require more space than is available. In selecting entries for inclusion here efforts have been made to include at least one mention of each child. Excerpts follow:

1st January 1855. This Book is intended for my Family Record Book in which to record all the different sums of money donated to my several children, five of whom have had considerable donations. Some have had more than others but my will and intention is to make them all equal in amounts and so in like manner with the younger children when they shall have arrived at full age. I expect to act toward them in like manner if I should live until that period, and if I should fail to live to carry out these equitable assigns of mine toward my children, I hereby will that my legal representative may be governed by what he finds recorded by me in this Book. The principles here set forth are to have all my children share equal in my effects, and hereafter will be found at each one's respective pages recorded the proper amounts that each one of my children has received as far as donations have been made in cash and in property at cash valuation, - all added together and charged as cash to them. I shall, in making these charges against each of them, state the kind and amount of property that I have donated to each of them. I mean by durable property such as land and negroes. I shall do it for purpose of showing how it was they became possessed of such property, no interest to be computed, only wherein justice requires it. I charge F. Flemister in behalf of his wife Martha fifty dollars interest on the money I paid for the land I let him have up to the date of the charge made against him, but no more interest to be charged after this date of the charges regularly made. I did not deed the land to F. Flemister but I bought and paid for the John White lands and let him take the titles to them. All the charges made by me in this Book against my children are to stand good against them at the final distribution of my estate.

HATTIESBURG, MS

1st January 1855. I now charge Isaac C. Nichols of having received in behalf of his wife Katherine Forty Eight hundred and Ten dollars in cash and negroes at cash valuation. The negroes were Lissy, a girl he received soon after his marriage with my daughter, Tenny a woman, Henry a boy, and Katy a girl. These last three he received only a few days previous to the date of this charge.

1st January 1855. Requests similar in amount of money and in number of slaves to the above bequest made to Isaac C. Nichols were also made to J. Clayton Prothro, Pinckney Prothro, and to Francis A. Freeman on behalf of his wife, Missourah.

15th May 1866. (This entry was made after the end of the War of Secession) This day I settled with J. C. Prothro in property and money making him equal with all my other children. (Following this is an appended note by Mr. McPherson, "J. Clayton Prothro was the only one of three brothers who survived service in the Confederate Army in the War between the States. At the end of the War he came home for a short period, but like many other ex-Confederate soldiers he thought he might be arrested and tried for treason against the Federal Government. So, he went to Texas where he could 'hide out' if it became necessary. His descendants live at El Dorado, Ark., and at other places in Texas and New Mexico.")

1st May 1865. (This entry made after the end of the War of Secession.) I have concluded to make and consider Pinckney's family equal with the rest of my children the it does not seem equal as Confederate money has become worthless. As Pinckney is now gone never to return leaving his poor little children I hope all my other children will be willing to stand that way as equal. (Note: see story on Pinckney Prothro, J-10, beginning at lower part of center column, Sheet No. 2, of these charts.)

1st January 1857. I now charge Thomas J. Brooks of having rec'd in behalf of his wife Sarah Ann TwentyFive Hundred and Fifty dollars in cash and a Negro girl Jinny, about thirteen years of age, at cash valuation.

1st January 1860. I here charge James E. Prothro with having received six hundred dollars in two young Negro men, to wit: Eli and Motty, both considered at cash valuation. (Note: James E. Prothro, J-11, was killed during the Gettysburg Battle in early July, 1863. See account of him in third column, Sheet No. 1 of these charts.)

1st January 1872. And now that I have lived to see this first day of January 1872 I propose to make some further distribution of my effects among my children and grandchildren. Some of my grandchildren are fatherless and some motherless, but my wish and design is that all six of the families shall be made equal in the final division of my effects. I propose now to commence giving at the rate of four hundred dollars to each family, at the oldest first. Nichols himself is not entitled personally to any of my effects, therefore I shall give to his children as far as I go in making donations and charge them with the amount so given. Pinckney's children are young therefore I do not expect to make any further donation to them during my life but they can come in after my death. I hope their Grandpa Travis will live to see them all of age and be their guardian. All the charges found in this Book now and from this time found in my handwriting may be considered substantially correct.

(The final entry, a routine one, was dated January 1, 1873.)

THE SOCIETY OF FRIENDS, OR QUAKERS

The Library of the University of South Carolina has numerous records of the Quakers who came to South Carolina in the early 1700's. Many of these records are unflattering toward these people whose religion forbade them to bear arms in the Revolution, although they firmly supported the American cause in other ways.

During the so-called Meetings of the Quakers spiritual considerations were relatively minor in importance. Everything was discussed that affected their daily lives, and decisions made by the Elders. This practice often brought them into conflict with legally constituted civil authorities.

It has been well known that the early Prothros came to America because they sought freedom to worship in their Quaker faith. Why did they depart from it? The Quakers who migrated southward, not all of whom were of Welsh extraction, usually lived at such distances from each other that it was difficult to attend Meetings. Many began to 'stray from the fold', and to join churches of more conventional denominations.

Finally, the Elders realized that their overall organization was disintegrating, and that they would eventually have to join some other faith. Ample notice of a convention was widely disseminated among Quakers, and all were advised as to its highly serious purpose. When it was eventually held, one of the first resolutions was to the effect that merits and disadvantages of all other Christian denominations popular in the area would be fully discussed; and that, upon conclusion of these discussions, votes would be cast as to which of these the Quakers would join. The resolution also provided that whichever faith received the most votes, would be joined by all. During the several days of discussions it was many times emphasized that the Baptist faith most nearly approximated that of the Quakers. Ballots were cast, the Baptist faith received a majority of the votes, and a resolution was adopted providing that all would transfer their allegiance and membership to that faith.

The account from which this is abbreviated did not mention the name of Prothro, nor the name of any other Quaker family. However, as a child, all the Prothros the writer knew were Baptists, and the assumption is that they became Baptists through the means described here.

PROTHROS LIVED IN THE CAROLINAS

THE ENCIRCLED FIGURES IN THE TEXT REFER TO SIMILAR FIGURES

① JOHN, BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN A BROTHER OF JAMES PROTHRO (1710-1768) OF THE THIRD GENERATION IN AMERICA, SOLD 250 ACRES IN 1748. JAMES AND JEREMIAH PROTHRO WITNESSED THE WILL OF CATHARINE EDWARDS IN 1755. IN 1750 JAMES PROTHRO, WITH OTHERS, FILED PETITION FOR GRANT OF LANDS. PETITION WAS GRANTED; THIS WAS IN BLADEN CO., N.C.

② PRINCE GEORGE PARISH, WHERE JAMES P. AND HIS FAMILY LIVED DURING A CONSIDERABLE PERIOD OF TIME. EVAN PROTHRO RECEIVED A CITATION IN 1765 TO ADMINISTER THE ESTATE OF HIS FATHER, JAMES. BOTH WERE REFERENCED AS PLANTERS.

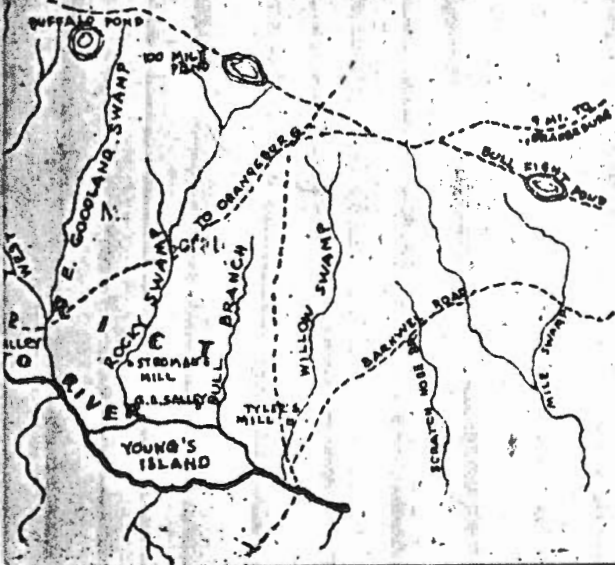

③ WELSH NECK, AN AREA WHERE WELSH QUAKERS BEGAN EARLY SETTLEMENTS.

④ ON NOV. 10, 1736 KING GEORGE GRANTED 179,940 ACRES OF LAND, BISECTED BY GREAT PEE DEE RIVER, AND GENERALLY SOUTH OF WHAT HAD BEEN KNOWN AS THE WELSH NECK. THE GRANT WAS DESIGNATED, "THE WELSH NECK TRACT" AND, BY ROYAL DECREE, WAS INTENDED FOR USE BY THOSE WHO HAD BEEN UPROOTED FROM THEIR NATIVE SURROUNDINGS BECAUSE OF RELIGIOUS BELIEFS. AS A PLANTER, JAMES PROTHRO WAS, ON MAY 18, 1749, WARRANTED 170 ACRES OF LAND ON THE N.E. SIDE OF THE PEE DEE RIVER, IN THE WELSH NECK TRACT.

RECORDS OF THE SOUTH CAROLINA HISTORICAL COMMISSION SHOW THAT EVAN PROTHRO, (THE FOURTH GENERATION MEMBER, WHO HAD BEEN IN THE WAR OF THE REVOLUTION), AND HIS SONS ACQUIRED LAND HOLDINGS IN THE WELSH NECK TRACT, AND THAT OTHER HOLDINGS WERE ACQUIRED BEYOND THE BOUNDARIES BUT IN THE VICINITY OF THE TRACT; THE FOLLOWING TABULATION SHOWS RECORDS OF THESE ACQUISITIONS:

THE SAME RECORDS EVIDENCE, FROM 1804, NUMEROUS ACQUISITIONS ON THE PART OF MEMBERS OF THE PROTHRO FAMILY IN THE SOUTH BRANCH AREA OF THE EDISTO RIVER. THESE WERE LOCATED IN THE ORANGEBURG, BARNWELL, AND EDGEFIELD DISTRICTS. APPARENTLY, ALL MEMBERS OF THE FAMILY TRANSFERRED THEIR BASES OF OPERATIONS, GENERALLY, DURING A NINE-YEAR PERIOD. HOWEVER, THERE IS EVIDENCE THAT JAMES ACQUIRED LAND IN THE CHERAW DISTRICT IN 1794 AFTERWARDS.

HE HAD BOUGHT 500 ACRES OF LAND IN THE DEAN SWAMP AREA OF ORANGEBURG DISTRICT IN 1790. (IN 1795 HE ADDED TO HIS DEAN SWAMP HOLDINGS BY PURCHASING AN ADDITIONAL TRACT OF 616 ACRES.)

⑤ A PARTIAL LIST OF LANDS ACQUIRED BY MEMBERS OF THE PROTHRO FAMILY IN THE SOUTH BRANCH AREA OF THE EDISTO RIVER FOLLOWS:

⑥ THE TOWN OF AIKEN WAS INCORPORATED IN 1835. BY AN ACT OF THE STATE LEGISLATURE IN 1871, AIKEN COUNTY WAS FORMED FROM PORTIONS OF THE BARNWELL, EDGEFIELD, AND ORANGEBURG DISTRICTS. ALL RECORDS OF LAND TRANSACTIONS MADE PRIOR TO THE FORMATION OF AIKEN COUNTY, AND WHICH HAD BEEN IN THE BARNWELL DISTRICT, REMAIN IN THE COUNTY COURT HOUSE AT BARNWELL. A PARTIAL LIST OF THESE RECORD FOLLOWS:

ALL RECORDS SHOW THAT EVAN PROTHRO DIED IN 1864. YET, THE WRITER HAS PERSONALLY SEEN RECORDS IN THE BARNWELL COURT HOUSE SHOWING THAT HE ACQUIRED LANDS SUBSEQUENT TO THAT YEAR. IT IS, THEREFORE, ASSUMED THAT BECAUSE OF CONFUSED CONDITIONS DURING AND FOR A TIME AFTER THE WAR OF SECESSION, SEVERAL YEARS WERE REQUIRED FOR ASSUMPTION OF TITLES BY HIS ESTATE. THESE RECORDS SHOW:

BURES ON THE MAPS

IT IS REPORTED THAT THERE ARE NUMEROUS OTHER RECORDS OF PROPERTY TRANSACTIONS INVOLVING MEMBERS OF THE FAMILY, AND THAT THEY ARE RECORDED IN COURT HOUSES AT AIKEN, EDGEFIELD, ORANGEBURG, AND AT ELBERTON, GA. THE WRITER HAS NOT HAD OPPORTUNITIES TO LOOK FOR THEM.

⑦ NATHANIEL PROTHRO WAS A MERCHANT AND, SHORTLY AFTER MARRIAGE, HE ESTABLISHED MERCANTILE INTERESTS IN BARNWELL.

⑧ LATER, NATHANIEL MOVED TO ELBERTON, ELBERT COUNTY, GEORGIA, AND CONTINUED HIS MERCANTILE BUSINESS THERE UNTIL HIS DEATH.

⑨ WILLIAM HAD GROWN UP IN SOCIETY HILL, OF THE WELLS RECK AREA, AND HAD ATTENDED ST. DAVIDS ACADEMY THERE. BECAUSE HE WAS IN THE SAWMILL BUSINESS, HE MOVED HIS OPERATIONS A NUMBER OF TIMES. AT ONE TIME HE LIVED IN BARNWELL. LATER, HE LIVED AND OPERATED MILLS IN THE DEAN SWAMP - GOODLAND SWAMP SECTION. HE AND HIS WIFE WERE MEMBERS OF TABERNACLE BAPTIST CHURCH. THIS WAS LOCATED NEAR KITCHENS MILL (AS OF 1962, IT REMAINS AN ACTIVE CHURCH.) HIS BROTHER, DR. JAMES PROTHRO, ALSO OWNED LANDS AND LIVED IN THE AREA.

⑩ DARIEN WAS A THRIVING COMMUNITY, AND A SAWMILL TOWN. THIS WAS IN THE CHAVES MILL CREEK AREA, AND WILLIAM LIVED AND OPERATED HERE FOR A TIME AFTER THE TIMBER RESOURCES IN THE DEAN SWAMP AREA WERE EXHAUSTED. THE TOWN OF DARIEN DISAPPEARED AFTER, IN 1835, THE CHARLESTON & HAMBURG RAILROAD WAS BUILT, AND HAD BY-PASSED THE TOWN BY SEVERAL MILES. AS OF A FEW YEARS AGO, THE ONLY REMAINING BUILDING WAS THE BAPTIST CHURCH.

⑪ AFTER TIMBER RESOURCES HAD BECOME EXHAUSTED ALSO IN THE DARIEN AREA, WILLIAM MOVED HIS FAMILY TO EDGEFIELD AND BEGAN BUYING FOREST LANDS. THESE WERE IN THE UPPER REACHES OF THE SOUTH BRANCH, EDISTO RIVER, ON SHAW'S CREEK AND MCTIER (VARIOUSLY SPELLED 'MCTYER' AND 'MCTEER', ALSO). BY 1841, HE AND HIS WIFE HAD MOVED TO MUNDER.

⑫ EVAN PROTHRO (THE YOUNGER EVAN) OWNED A 5000 ACRE PLANTATION AND MILLS ON SHAW'S CREEK, NOT FAR FROM DARIEN. IT WAS CALLED HATCHWAY. IN 1852 THE WRITER VISITED IT, AND FOUND A LARGE OLD HOUSE WHICH CONTAINED FINE WOOD PANELLING, MANTELS, AND CABINET WORK. ON ONE OF THE PORCH COLUMNS HE FOUND THE FOLLOWING INSCRIPTION CARVED, "B. W. R. 1824 - IN GOD WE TRUST". AT THAT TIME, THE OLD MILL DAM CROSSING SHAW'S CREEK HAD ENORMOUS TREES GROWING ON IT. THE POND HAD LONG BEEN DRAINED. A SECONDARY ROAD, AND BRIDGE ON THE OLD DAM WERE USED FOR CROSSING THE CREEK. HIGHWAY MAPS, ISSUED AS RECENTLY AS 1921, SHOWED THE ROAD AS A PRINCIPAL HIGHWAY, AND HATCHWAY BRIDGE WAS SHOWN AT ABOUT THE TIME OF THE WAR OF SECESSION EVAN SOLD THE ENTIRE PROPERTY FOR $10,000. HE ALSO OWNED A LARGE HOME IN AIKEN. A FAMILY OF ELEVEN CHILDREN WAS BROUGHT UP IN THE AIKEN AND HATCHWAY HOMES. FROM THEM, SONS WHO MOVED WESTWARD PRIOR TO THE WAR OF SECESSION WERE: EDWARD, NELSON BROWN, HESSECK, BELTON (M.D.), GUSTAVUS, ADOLPHUS (M.D.), AND WILEY (M.D.).

IN THIS CONNECTION, I ONCE ASKED MY MOTHER WHY IT WAS THAT ALTHOUGH THE PROTHROS HAD LIVED IN THE STATE DURING MANY GENERATIONS AND ALL SEEMED TO REAR LARGE FAMILIES, THE NAME WAS A RARE ONE. HER REPLY WAS THAT PRACTICALLY ALL MALE MEMBERS HAD LEFT DURING THE OPENING OF THE WEST TO SETTLERS. SHE ALSO SAID THAT OLDER ONES HAD TOLD HER THAT HER GRANDFATHER, EVAN (THE YOUNGER), ONCE ASSEMBLED HIS SONS AROUND IN EFFECT, TOLD THEM, "WE ARE TAKING EVERYTHING OUT OF OUR LAND AND PUTTING NOTHING BACK. ALSO, SOME DAY OUR SLAVES ARE BOUND TO BE FREE. MY UNCLE JAMES AND WILLIAM AND THEIR FAMILIES, ALL OF MY COUSINS, HAVE GONE TO THE NEW WESTERN REGIONS. FROM ALL REPORTS, MOST OF THEM HAVE DONE WELL. I URGE YOU ALL TO FOLLOW THEM."

⑬ WILSON ERNEST PROTHRO (1834-1873), THE ONLY SON WHO DID NOT ACCEPT THE ADVICE OF EVAN TO MOVE WESTWARD, OWNED MILLS AND LARGE LAND HOLDINGS CENTERED WHERE S.C. HIGHWAY 215 NOW CROSSES SHAW'S CREEK. A LARGE FAMILY, OF WHICH MY MOTHER WAS A MEMBER, WAS BROUGHT UP IN A PLANTATION-TYPE HOME NORTH OF THE CREEK. THE HOME BURNED ABOUT THE YEAR 1900, AFTER WHICH JEFFERSON DAVID PROTHRO, WHO HAD INHERITED THE PROPERTY, BUILT A LARGE NEW HOME ON A NEARBY HILL. IT REMAINS AND, TOGETHER WITH ADJACENT LANDS, IS OWNED BY DESCENDANTS OF HIS.

Anne Prothro Slade

The people who laid the foundation of civilization in the new world were men who wanted and loved freedom.

"To find it they braved the perils of the deep, traversed the solitary forests of Maine, built huts on the bleak shores of New England, explored the Jerseys, found shelter in the Cresapeaks, met starvation and death on the banks of the James, were buffeted by storms around the capes of the Carolinas, built towns by the estuaries of the Great Lakes, made roads through the pine woods, —and the swamps of the South." It is all one story—the story of the human race seeking for liberty"—Ridpath

THE PROTHRO HISTORY

1089 - 1960

Introduction

The Prothros are descended from the GREAT LORD OF BLANCUCK of Carmarthen County, West South Wales.

The Lord of Blancuck was known as Cadivor, who lived in Dolwilym Castle in Wales and died there in 1089. History gives account of several of the Prothro families living there later, especially the pedigree of James Prydderch, in 1579, who married Frances the Charming. The last family in the Castle, Evan Prydderch, requested the name of Prydderch be changed to Prothro. This was done just before the abolishing of the old castle and the building of the new mansion to be occupied by Evan's oldest son, William Prothro.

From Burke's Peerage . . .

Dolwilym, in the Parish of Llandidwen, county of Carmarthen, the old seat of the Prothro family, which was rather a curious specimen of architecture, was pulled down when the present mansion, the seat of William Prothro Esq. was built. The possessors of the name of Prothro have taken it in compliance with the Will of the late Evan Prothro, the last of the family to have been possessed of Dolwilym in the beginning of the 17th century when Rhydderch John ap Rys married Agnes Lloyd, daughter of David Lloyd ap Phillips ap John of Llandidwen, gentleman. The Prothros descend from Cadivor the Great Lord of Blancuck.

The Prothro arms are . . . arg., a lion rampant, guardant sa.

From Burke's Armorial . .

The Prothro arms are derived from a younger branch of the family Prytherch—a scion of Prothro son of Prydderch who sprung from Cadwar Vawr (Cadivor) of West South Wales, the common ancestor of Phillips of Picton, Morgan, Prothro, and Lewis of St. Pierre.

Evan had nine sons and according to history of that day they were at liberty to remain in the home, under the predominance of their older brother, William, or they could leave home and settle elsewhere, in another country or even a foreign country, as many did. One of these sons, Evan Jr., was a close friend of William Penn of England, a Quaker, and had declared that he accepted the Quaker Faith as opposed to the religion of the King of England, therefore was a marked man, and punishment was meted to him in the form of surplus taxation and double tithing, which followed him wherever he went-- to Pembroke, to Narbeth, etc. Persecutions on account of religion were increasing over Wales and England, therefore, to Evan, escape was the only relief.

Hist. of Delaware County . . . Hist. of Chester Country, Pennsylvania.

1681 . . . the first settlers in Pennsylvania were Welsh Quakers.

1681 . . . A Welsh gentleman bought 500 acres land from Wm. Penn.

1683 . . . or earlier, John Jerman Quaker Preacher, John Morgan and some others and Evan Prothro from Narbeth in Pembrokeshire, West South Wales, settled in Radnor, Pennsylvania. Evan emigrated from Narbeth to escape persecutions, fines, and imprisonment he suffered in Wales as a Quaker.

With Evan Prothro was his wife Elizabeth Morgan and two sons, John E. and Lew-- (name blurred on notes), probably Lewis a family name. Colonies, as a rule, were composed of relatives.

† The land called Pennsylvania and owned by William Penn was, according to Bishop Gregg who lived in Radnor, "An ideal place in which to live-- a place where men lived peacefully in brotherhood. There was no militia, no police, no difference of opinion or in rank, and above all else, no imprisonment for religion's sake. At peace with the Indians too". It was Penn's "dreamland of freedom and brotherhood".

The name of Prothro has gone through many changes, --Prytherch, Prydderch, Protheroe, and finally reached the spelling of Prothro.

Succession By Law

The succession of the Prothro families as the Welsh write it, would read like this:

Nathaniel ap Evan ap James ap John E. ap Evan of Wales who married Elizabeth Morgan, first cousin.

(ap means "son of")

We would understand better if written,

Evan Prothro of Wales was succeeded by his oldest son

John E. who was succeeded by his oldest son

James who was succeeded by his oldest son

Evan who was succeeded by his oldest son

Nathaniel,

The Welsh held firmly to the law of primogeniture, which was the right of the oldest son to inherit the father's estate. This law was abolished before Nathaniel made his Will, so he named his wife as inheritrix of his estate in Georgia.

EVAN PROTHRO, Gentleman, 1650-1709

Beginning the history with Evan and wife Elizabeth and two sons who came to America in 1683, from West South Wales, and settled in Pennsylvania, they had bought 500 acres of land in order to have a place to call home when they should arrive. They landed at Newcastle and went overland to Radnor, near Philadelphia. There they settled and lived peacefully many years. The families holding together planted and cultivated hemp and flax. These "related families" being Prothro, Morgan, Lewis, Phillips, etc., "descendants of one common ancestor, Cadivor the Great Lord of Blancuck". Evan had suffered persecutions in Wales and as late as 1670 had been taxed one-tenth the value of his household goods, amounting to 8 pounds and 10 shillings. Unjust taxation and surplus tithing were the factors that drove so many Welsh from their native land. Evan did not like social life in Radnor and is said to have been "persuaded" to attend the wedding of a good friend, Lewis Walker. Evan had little toleration for the laxity of Quaker dignity and had to correct his boys on several occasions.

The title of GENTLEMAN was, in Wales, a rank just below that of Duke or Lord—a person of education as well as good breeding.

In Radnor, wonderful peace lasted nineteen years, according to Ridpath, and until the secession of Delaware in 1702. In this year a border line was surveyed between Delaware and Pennsylvania and the Quakers found themselves out of Pennsylvania and into Delaware and under a new and different government. What would William Penn do about this? They had paid taxes in Pennsylvania for many years since they arrived. Would this effect the title of their lands? Along with the land trouble came the alarming news that an epidemic of yellow fever was sweeping the country. Many families quickly packed and moved to South Carolina. Some stayed: and the epidemic passed them by for seven years.

But in 1709 Evan and Elizabeth lost their youngest son, Lewis and in December of that same year they too became victims of the fever, dying four days apart.

A. JOHN E. PROTHRO, 1680-1720. scrab.

The oldest son of Evan and Elizabeth, took his wife and two young children and with the young family of Laban Morgan, son of Dr. John Morgan of the colony, left posthaste for Newcastle, the point of embarkation. They had planned to go back to Wales where they were born. While waiting for transportation, William Penn disembarked from a vessel and seeing the anxiety of the young people, advised them to wait awhile, assuring them that they would be quarantined, and that would bring on more trouble.

The two families could not turn towards home, there was no safety at home. So they went down the coast about a mile and settled permanently.

JAMES PROTHO 1710-1765

James was born about four months after his father had established a home on the coast. Notes in possession of Mrs. Nelson, quoting the words of William Prothro Sr., are as follows: "My great grandfather James, son of John E., was born in Delaware, married a Virginia girl, and later moved to South Carolina and lived there the rest of his days". This location was in Prince George Parish and not very far from Georgetown. From here James contacted his kinsfolk, some he had never seen—the younger generation of those who had fled from Pennsylvania. Only a few of the older ones remembered the hardships of moving to South Carolina and the disappointment of learning that the soil there was not the kind to grow hemp and flax, the products they were skilled in cultivating. But in time satisfactory adjustments had been made and everything had gradually grown better.

The two oldest sons of James, Evan and John, went often to Georgetown. They had made friends with the sons of the splendid Dozier family, James and Leonard, whose father, Leonard Dozier Sr., was one of the founders of the Winyah Indigo Society. From the sale of Indigo came the funds to educate children as far south as Charleston and up to the North Carolina border line. A record in History is of "John Prothro and Leonard Dozier voting for Vestrymen and Wardens"—three officers of the Prince George Winyah Church, Georgetown S. C. "declined acting".

It is told of the four boys— young men—that they waded through water about knees deep to get a peek inside the old Welsh Neck Church that stood under two feet of water nearly all of the year, being in the low land near the river. Evan looking for history found the name of Mary Prothro on the register. Who was Mary Prothro? There too were the Minutes of a Meeting of earlier days. Evan copied a page. These Minutes of Welsh Neck Church show the high standards as well as the "sins and struggles" of its members. In this day the Church was the LAW.

MINUTES OF WELSH NECK CHURCH 1698

"At a business meeting, Brother D— having said something disrespectful of the Church, the committee finds him Ripe for Excommunication. We give him up to the Messenger of Satan".

"Brother H— sold some corn at $1.25 per bushel, which is considered Extortion, having receive more for any article than its rail value".

"There were eighteen cases of drunkenness before the committee and the decision was that the Church Bares and Sympathis where one promises to reform".

"Such misdemeaners as fighting, shooting, unlawful pregnancy, gumping with wicked dancing, and taking planks from the Meeting House, The Lord Have Mercy on Their Soles".

These were good people, fine pioneers, and Bishop Gregg, historian of the Welsh, says, "Of all people I ever knew, simplicity of character appears to have been one of the most marked traits of the Welsh who came to America to make a home. They were open and sincere, with deep religious feeling. For this and sobriety and moderation they were distinguished".

(In this book there are records of Evan and John, taken from church records and political records).

James and his family found life good in South Carolina. Wheat, corn and rice were planted. Indigo, also. Wild horses and cattle abounded on the river low lands. Tobacco was shipped to Virginia in exchange for slaves. Timber was plentiful and was easily sent down the river to market at Georgetown.

To the Virginia mother it was beginning to be quite noticeable that her sons were fast losing their Quaker identity. It could have been association with young men in the city or it could have been the over-all influence of a fine church, the Winyah Episcopal Church of Georgetown. This was the mother's choice for Sunday services and several of the children were christened there.

Evan had been married some years but John was single when the citation came to "Evan Prothro of Prince George Parish to administer on estate of James Prothro of said Parish, his father, the fifth day of June in the year one thousand seven hundred and sixty five".

It is disappointing to learn no more about the man James, but there is much meaning in these words concerning his life: "His family pride, his deep religious feeling, and his consideration for others, were distinguishing qualities of his character".

N. EVAN PROTHRO SR. 1742-1822

scr21. Being the oldest son of James, Evan Sr. was in line of succession, and took charge of his father's estate. With the help and interest of his younger brother, John, they succeeded in carrying out their father's wishes, which were to move away from that Parish and find a healthier location with better schools for the children and grandchildren. A few months later they sold out and went up the east side of the Pee-Dee River, crossed over just below Buck swamp, and settled in St. David Parish, one of the highest locations along the river. Evan Sr. and John received notice to go to the polls at once and vote for a member to represent the Parish in the Commons House of Assembly. The polls were "at Mr. Mackintosh's residence on Tuesday, Oct. 4th, and at Mr. Beddingfield's residence, Oct. 5th". They went to the Mackintosh residence.

In St. David, many Welsh people were living. Here was the Lewis family, and that of the Phillips. Now that the Prothros and Morgans had joined them, all the "related families" were again together. The Prothros and Morgans secured land adjoining that of the Lewis family and were quite satisfied with the location. But Evan's oldest son Nathaniel, didn't like the place at all, and ran away to Georgia where a married sister was living. Evan followed and brought him home. But Nathaniel was restless and wouldn't stay in school—he just wanted to "go places". He asked to go with the hog drovers who would be passing through Columbia in the next ten days. When Evan learned that the drovers were going to Sparta, Georgia, he wrote a letter to a friend in Sparta who had charge of the pork sales, Mr. Duke Hamilton, and asked him to look after his "young son Nat, who was determined to walk that long distance and whose shoes will be riddled, to be sure, but he has money to buy more". Then he said to Nathaniel, "If Mr. Hamilton assists you in any way, you must give his lady a little fat pig, or some other present".

Two months later Nathaniel returned home tired and unhappy. They could travel only eight miles each day, driving the hogs before them and Nathaniel realized this was not the kind of job he would ever again want. His next thought turned back to Georgia. He had heard daily talk of a Revolution coming.

The Prothro men were in St. David when the Revolution came to that part of South Carolina. All the men took up arms in defense of their country, and not a day too soon, for the enemy was not long in coming up the east side of the river, plundering and destroying.

Evan Sr. gave silver, generously, to the State Treasury. He served one month in Marion's Brigade. And served in the Militia one and a half years or a little longer in St. David Parish.

News had come from Georgia that Nathaniel had stood beside the old men at home and helped protect and take care of the families and homes, and would be rewarded for the part he played in the name of duty. "But they burned every barn in sight", he repeated over and over. Nathaniel's ideas were always climbing, and his next goal was the Militia.

On record is the fact that Evan Sr. received money for his duty in Marion's Brigade; two grants each of 640 acres for the sum of 41 pounds, 18 shillings paid into the Treasury on two occasions; over 2000 acres land for several more cash payments to the State; and for horses, cattle, and hogs impressed; and cash for service in the Militia.

After the war had ended and all the people of St. David had restored losses and homes, this Parish was a pleasant place in which to live. The St. David Society had been organized. Near was the St. David Academy. Welsh Church had been brought out of the low lands and given a special location on Society Hill. A Courthouse had been built and a "goal" (jail). Evan Sr. remembering his first impression of music in the church in Georgetown, suggested they have music before and after the sermon. This brought on only cold stares. He learned later, however, that a committee had been sent down to Charles Town to learn the facts of "music in a Meeting House". Not long after that assurance, they handed seventeen dollars to Brother Prothro and asked him to go get "a organ".

Evan Sr. was growing old. His once large family was no longer in the home. His only living sons were away, busy with their own affairs. Nathaniel was in Georgia, James was a doctor there, and William Sr. was in Edgefield, S. C.

Nathaniel had a large family and a good wife, so Evan Sr. had two slaves take him to Georgia, to Elbert County. There he stayed the remaining years of his life.

NATHANIEL PROTHRO 1765-1823

In line of succession, Nathaniel had the honor of being the head of the Prothro family a few months. Nathaniel was a merchant and always had been since his first Merchantile Establishment in Barnwell, shortly after marriage. Then he moved to Elbert County, Georgia, and continued in this work. He married Zilphia Morgan, and their large family consisted of the following: Evan, Solomon, Rachel, Mehitabel, Mary, William, Joshua, Nathaniel Jr., Elizabeth, Lydia, Massie, Harriet. Elizabeth married Josiah Dobbs, and among their children was Mrs. Mullens, of Texarkana. Joshua Prothro married Miss Dobbs. Issue: Morgan, Lucy, Bunion, and Dr. James of Ouchita Parish. Joshua's second marriage was to Eveline Westberry. His son Morgan, of the first marriage had two daughters, Carrie and Fannie, and it was to the home of Carrie who married Allen, that, later, Joshua took his wife and stayed four years, from 1874 to 1878. Upon leaving they paid the following bill: "For support, lodging, and proper maintenance of himself and wife, Evaline . . . 30 head horned cattle, 1 Bay mare named PUGIN, branded figure three within a heart, 1 roan mare, DOLLY, 1 Black FANNY,, 30 head cattle on his plantation on Bondieu River . . . A son of Jefferson Davis, and grandson of Ervin is Edwin Thomas Prothro of Alexandria, La. He married Frances Terry, and they have three sons: Randolph Davis who married Sarah Fryer, and their children are Sarah, Jane, Mary Ann. R. Davis Jr., and Catherine Frances; Edwin Terry married Dorothy Kenilworth, and their children are Martha, Carrol, Edwin Jr.; James Warren married Frances Harris, and their children are Pamela, Barbara and Susan.

WILL OF NATHANIEL PROTHRO Feb. 25, 1823 Probated Sept. 1, 1823

To wife Zilphia all lands, houses, horses and eleven slaves for life or widowhood.
To sons Joshua, William and Nathaniel Jr., a slave, horse and bridle.
To daughters Mary, Lydia, Elizabeth and Harriet, a slave, bed etc.
To grand daughter Nancy Gardner $300 at majority or marriage.
As to my four children, Evan and Solomon, and daughters Rachel and Mehitabel Jones, they have received their portion.

The line of succession ended with Nathaniel. The law of primogeniture had been abolished. But there are three more families necessary to bring the Prothro history up to date:

- (1.) James Prothro M. D., brother of Nathaniel.
- (2.) William Sr., youngest brother of Nathaniel.
- (3.) Evan of Aiken, oldest son of Nathaniel.

(1.) JAMES PROTHRO, M. D. 1767-1840, circa.

Being a physician and not a large land owner with deeds etc. to be constantly recording, his kind of work precludes any chance of following his moves throughout the years. By a land record in 1790 he bought 500 acres in Dean Swamp and by another in 1795, he secured 616 acres in the same territory, evidently aware that Dean Swamp would be valuable in the future.

He was living in Georgia during the Revolution, and as late as 1825, went with his sister-in-law, Zilphia, to the Dr. Dobbs District to check on the Land Lottery records. At this time he was 58 years of age, and "head of family", as registered.

(Uncertainty of the date of the death of many of the pioneer families is caused by the custom of burial in one's own yard—a graveyard that is lost when the property is sold a few times).

The oldest son of James Prothro, M. D. was George Prothro who married his first cousin, Sarah Prothro, daughter of William Sr. George was born in 1796 and Sarah in 1803. They moved to Georgia and settled on a plantation where George, with slave labor, built his own house. This was in Griffin County. Handwrought nails at this time were scarce articles and the best substitute was a wooden peg. To secure a firm and steady framework of a house the carpenters used large wooden pegs, and for tables, beds, or benches, a smaller size was used and along with them was splendid dovetail work and mortised joints. This well built house is still standing, and occupied today by descendants.

Among their fifteen children was Judge Clayton Prothro who married Frances Bussey. With his wife and three small children, the youngest being William, Henry, they moved to El Dorado, Ark. in 1856. William Henry married Sarah Barkley and among their twelve children is Albert Clayton Prothro now living in El Dorado and very much interested in a family history of his own.

The next oldest son, James Jr. born in 1803, married Mary Ridley Mims. They established a home in Edgfield County and after three children were born, moved to Randolph County in Alabama. Here they remained some years, then in 1844, and after the addition of five more children, they went to Texas, settling in Rusk County, not far from where Longview is today. James was a large land owner and a successful farmer and lived in a two-story white house above the average in that day. Their children to enjoy this lovely home were: Newton; Emily Ann; James; Cordelia who married Henry Cunnys; Dozier who married Mary Blakely; George married Ann Holloway. Dozier was father of Pearl Prothro who married Bennet Cullen. Dozier's son, George Elliot, was father of George Thornton who married Jo Mat Copeland of Gibsland; Annie Prothro who married C. Stall; Carl; Joe Bailey; Ray E.; and Mary who married W. C. Henderson.

With James Jr. came a younger brother, Emory Prothro whose descendants are in Longview. The youngest son of James Jr. was six years old when he came to Texas. This was George Emory who married Ann Holloway. Among their children is a daughter who was named George for her late father. Miss George Prothro married Thos. W. Swiley and lives in Longview. Mrs. Swiley recently had printed the story of her mother's family and is now assembling the history of her father's family—"The Prothro-Mims Story".

(2). WILLIAM PROTHRO SR. 1769-1845

William grew up on Society Hill, in St. David Parish, South Carolina, and with his brothers, James and Nathaniel, had splendid educational advantages, attending the famous St. David Academy. William began early in following his father's interest in the sawmill business. He married in St. David parish and his family there consisted of five girls: Susan who married Levi Hickson; Margaret married John Hickson; Sarah married her first cousin, George Prothro of Georgia; Ursula and Polly, single. William's wife died in St. David and he took Ursula and little Polly and moved to Orangeburgh, where later he married Esther Hickson. They established a home in Orangeburgh District and lived there many years, Esther and William placing their church letters in Tabernacle Church above Orangeburgh. Children born to them in Orangeburgh: John Mercer, Ann, Ezekiel, Mulvenah, and Elizabeth. During these years, timber interests moved William Sr., from place to place--to Barnwell, to Dean Swamp, and finally settling his mills in Darien. The family found Darien a first class milltown and begged to move there. Darien had a Church, a bank, a school, and a small hospital with Dr. Herbert Prothro resident physician.

When the final "cut-over" of timber was being made in Dean Swamp, William began buying lands on Shaw's Creek where forests primeval flourished, and not too far from Edgefield. This would be his next move of the mills. He moved his family back to Orangeburgh to be near him, and as the mills operated on Shaw's Creek, a new home in Edgefield progressed in the making. This house, a mansion, still stands. In the year 1825, the family moved in. William Butler, the youngest child, was two years old. From the mill where William Sr. went each day, there was made a plank road to his new home; from the back door there was a plank walkway leading to the Baptist church less than two blocks away.

Ann married William Prothro, son of Nathaniel. Ursula married John Frazier and the two couples went to Louisiana and settled on a 300 acre tract of land they named St. Maurice. They built a house on the hill and a store building near the river boat-landing. Year's later when the mercantile business of PROTHRO & FRAZIER was flourishing Ann's oldest son, Sanders Prothro, was sent to New Orleans to buy a bill of goods for the store, and came home sick, which proved to be yellow fever. Ann and William and five children died in a short time and were buried under the cluster of cedar trees in the front yard of the house. Sanders recovered and went to war, a private in Co. B. Maddox Regiment.

A:

John Mercer, remained a bachelor. His Sister, Elizabeth, married J. Tupper of Charleston and their son William was father of Dr. Maude Tupper, and Mrs. Hunt of Aiken. S. C. Ezekiel married Lavinia Lestarjette. Their son, Charles, lived to be twenty one, was a private in Co. C. 9th La. Infantry and was home on his 20th birthday.

William Prothro Sr. finally began preparations to retire and closed his mills and gave serious thought to moving to Louisiana where so many of his children were now living. Timber had been the Will-o-the wisp that led him through the forests of South Carolina but it would be his children who would lead him to Louisiana. In 1841, William Sr. and Esther were in Louisiana, occupying their new two-story home on lots 49 and 50 facing the Parallelogram in the town of Minden which had been recently laid off by Mr. Veedor, the Parallelogram being a central park around which the stores, residences, Inns, and churches were built. With William and Esther were their two unmarried daughters. Later Mulvenah married D. L. Evans, lawyer, and Polly married Dr. Laban Morgan who had come from Edgefield the previous year. Dr. Morgan became the beloved old physician who travelled miles on horseback or in a buggy, over the territory of Minden and over the long road to Mt. Lebanon where the Prothro families had moved.

Four years after William and Esther had located in Minden, their son, Ezekiel, died and left a wife and five children living in Mt. Lebanon. With them was the mother, Madame Lestarjette, of the wife, Lavinia, but the management of his estate and the large number of slaves needed immediate attention. The Court appointed his brother, William Butler Prothro to look after the family and the estate. William Butler proved quite capable and in less than two years had married Lavinia and assumed control of the vast estate of his brother. While living with Madame Lestarjette whose two-story residence was about two blocks east of the Mt. Lebanon Parallelogram, on the Coach road to Monroe, William Butler had a residence erected in Mt. Lebanon on the southeast corner of the Parallelogram, a two-story house of New England architecture, and about a block west of the Stage Coach stop. Along this row facing the Parallelogram were the homes of the College Professors, the Doctors, and the elite of Mt. Lebanon, while on the opposite side was the Methodist Church, the Postoffice, one or two mercantile stores and a modest Tavern where the thirsty and hungry travellers of the Stage Coach stopped for refreshments at and after midnight, as they went through.

Here in this home which is still standing, were born nine children, the tenth having arrived during the war when the family was in Texas camp.

Henry born 1848 married Ella Kerr. Children: Gardrad and Dainty. Gardrad married Bessie May of Ky. Children: Mrs. Edwards; Mrs. Shaw; Gardrad Jr.

John Mercer married Lamy Slack. Children: Nora, Maggie, Jess, Frank, Lois.

Willie Luda married Lucy Fouts. Children: Tom, Gladys, Basil, Harriet Lavinia, Katie, Ella Neal, John Alexander.

Mattie married Risdon Smith. Children: Herbert; Ernest who married Annie Colbert; Bryant married Lula Walker; Ethel married W. Wood.

George Herbert M. D. married Eugene Hogue. Children: Louella married A. Winsett; Fred married Georgia Lum; Majorie married Dr. Wynn.

(The great-grandchildren's names are in the LESTARJETTE STORY)

(3.) EVAN PROTHRO OF AIKEN--1788-1864

Evan was the oldest son of Nathaniel, yet was not in line of succession according to law, as heretofore. The old law of primogeniture had been abolished. Being a man of great wealth, no doubt the honor or the addition of slaves and property meant very little to him. He was born in 1783, five years after the Revolution. He had no war records, having passed away during the Civil War. The final Treaty after the Revolution was effected between all the Nations that had been at war, Sept. 3rd, 1783. There is confusion between the records of Evan of Aiken and those of his grandfather Evan of St. David, later of Georgia. Evan of Aiken should be credited with buying 222 acres land in Orangeburgh in 1829, with 273 acre in 1836 and with purchasing 640 acres in 1839--timbered land near the Shaw's Creek Mills. It should be realized that Evan of St. David had died in the year of 1823. Evan of Aiken was said to be a skilled timber estimator and bought all available lands near the operating mills in order to furnish and sell timber to them. Being about fifteen years of age when the Dean Swamp mills were operating, it is hardly possible that he "owned" these mills, as some genealogists state erroneously and regardless of time and dates. Fant Thornly's new Atlas and maps show in print the owner of the Dean Swamp and the Shaw's Creek mills.

Evan owned mills on the Hatchway Plantation, that expanse of many rich acres of land. On this Plantation was a very fine residence, another home of distinction, owned by Jefferson Davis Prothro. It is claimed that Evan sold this plantation the last year of his life, for the sum of ten thousand dollars. A very few records of his life are found. One is that he resigned as road commissioner in Orangeburgh District in 1829. Another is of a slave he bought for $1700 in gold to take care of his favorite saddle horse. A slave named Skip was said to have run away with a mule and saddle and bridle.

Evan married Sarah Hickson and their children were as follows: Nelson, Whitfield, Hassell, Sally, Elizabeth, Lavinia, Harriet, Wilson Ernest, Mattie, Sarah Jane, and Adolphus. Nelson married Mary Rossen whose daughter is mother of "Doc" Prothro of baseball fame. Sarah Jane married Elijah Boatwright. Children: Eulalie; Clifford; Dr. Sophia who married Brunson. They have one daughter. Dr. Hassell married O. A. Prothro. Children: Adolphus, Claudius, George E. and Sarah Evan. Dr. Hassell came to Louisiana in 1850: was surgeon in the Army when the Mt. Lebanon College was used as a hospital. George E. married Mary Glen Hayes. Children: Evie, George, Randolph, Dr. Hamilton Jr., Sadie Belle, and Duke Hamilton. Dr. Duke Hamilton Prothro married Edith Stelle. Children: Maureen, Catherine. Claudius Prothro married Virginia Hunt. Children: Randall H. who married Nancy Wilde; Emily married Van Horn; William and Carleton, single.

EDMUND PROTHRO married---. Children: Joseph Loraine, Samuel, Armenia. Joseph married Mary Hasseltine Mobley. Children: Sidney David; Mattie who married Rounge; Mrs. Arrington.

WILSON ERNEST married Louisa Wroton. Children: Cuthbert married V. Johnson and they have three children; Ida May, Cora, and Lannes. Jefferson Davis married Rosa Summers. Issue: Julian, Rosa, Wilson, Ruth, Joseph. This family lived in the lovely home of "Hatchway", a house of distinction. Ida Eloise married D. H. Salley, and their daughter, Cornelia, married Douglas Danforth of Columbia, S. C. They have a daughter; Irene married Coleman. Children: Ethel, Ruth, Estelle, Louise, Bruce; Urbana married J. La Vance Tyler and their children are the following: Wilson Scott, Selma, Juarita, Carey Leonard, Norman, Ernest, Wallace, Gerald.

Col. Gerald Tyler is in the U. S. Army. He married Ruth Bent. Wilson Ernest married Annie McKensie. Children: Ernest, Louise; Mattie married Joseph Guess and their daughter is Mrs. Percy Bathea; Mae married J. Brodie. Children: Edward, Mark, Judson, Earle; Victoria married Dr. Bonner.

Conclusion

The Prothro families in America seem to have found life worth living wherever they went—Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Georgia, Texas, and Louisiana. The "related families of Morgan, Prothro, Lewis, and Phillips", held together through the centuries, generation after generation, from State to State, and came together in Minden, La., in the years 1836-1845, as their land deeds, marriages, deaths, etc. show in records filed in the Courthouse in Minden, Webster Parish.

The old Prothro home on lots 49 and 50, of the original map of Veedor, and facing the Parallelogram which was the central park of the town, was sold, over a century ago, to the wife of Colonel Lewis. Descendants of the Lewis family and the Phillips family still live in Minden. The beloved old physician, Dr. L. Morgan, spent many years of activity in Minden territory, and in long, rugged buggy rides to Mt. Lebanon, on sick calls from the Prothro families. (He brought the writer of this history into the world).

The religion of the Prothros is Baptist, but other denominations are well represented.

There were Prothro men in every war, beginning with the Revolution. Always and ever defending. Not one ever took the oath of allegiance to a foreign country. Many a grave marks the loss of the young, the married, and the aged. Their war records are read with pride, yet with a feeling of great sadness.

REMARKS:

There are no legends in the Prothro family. This history is a document of facts left to us in records that give the exact line of family succession, which was a law.

And there was one ancestor who had a healthy amount of family pride, and delighted in talking about his family—his aunts and uncles and all of his ancestors. This was William Prothro Sr. of Edgefield, South Carolina. His son, Ezekiel, wanting to have information to transmit to his young son, made notes of many important facts and family relations. When he died, his wife gave these notes to her grand-daughter, Mrs. Nelson of New York. When I was there in school I read them and copied a few, but without any idea of needing them in the future. Many pages were illegible caused by water soaking—from frozen pipes—when her books were in storage and she was in Europe.

A: The recording of this history and the giving of it to you who may never make such trips, nor spend so many years in research—has been, and is a glorious task of love and pride.

A project is a task we plan with thoughtfulness and care Not just a sudden notion or a castle in the air Any worthy task unless it does some good on earth is meaningless If you should ask A la Metairie.
